News Release

July 6, 2010

The Historical files for Building and Planning are now available online.

Kelso, WA – Great News!!! The Cowlitz County Building and Planning Department now has their address files available for online review.

In an effort to increase public access to, and transparency of government, the historical files of the Building and Planning Department are now available on the County website. The files that are available for review are sorted by address. These files are mainly the historical records that Building and Planning has for properties outside of city limits that have taken out permits or had actions occur through the department. These files also include some limited current information. Please go to www.mycowlitz.com and click on the "Online Address Files" link under Building and Planning near the bottom of the page.
